WordTalk

It seems that WordTalk has met with end of life and can no longer be acquired on the internet from the University of Edinburgh. It seems that someone made these macros and then encrypted the macro, and no one was able to update the macro template itself.

The original file, which was never really agreeable with Windows and Word, is about 1.5 megs, my mod of it, is 72 kb, and I use it on Word 32 bit, because it will use all the Sapi 5 voices, but it will also work on Word 64 bit, but comply with that version of Word's voice usage, i.e., select Microsoft voices, and Ivonova voices.

Now to use voices, one may have to install Net 3.5.

At any rate, I use the 72kb file which seems to be fully compatible with later versions of Word. I also include the personal reader, which I make my mp3 books with, there is non on the market which can compete with it for making audio books.
